Metro Receives National Award for Security Excellence

For the fourth time, Metro has received the top honor among mid-size transit systems for security excellence from the American Public Transportation Association (APTA).

Among its security practices, Metro has installed customer-facing monitors that broadcast a live feed of on-board security cameras to promote customer safety and security on board. Metro also utilizes real-time, wireless video monitoring equipment to assist law enforcement in the event of security incidents, and has put into place a number of security related programs and partnerships for operator and emergency personnel training.

We are honored to be recognized as an industry leader for our efforts to ensure that all riders have a safe and secure experience every trip.
